Things you should know

- The influenza vaccine can never give you the flu. The vaccine does not contain any live virus.
- The influenza vaccine is generally well tolerated but you should stay close by for 10 – 15 mins so we can observe you for the first few minutes following vaccination.
- Like all medicines, this vaccine may have some side-effects. These are usually very mild and do not last long. If you have any concerns, call your Doctor for advice.
- Some people report redness or discomfort at the site of the injection – this should disappear within a few days.
- A small percent of people report mild fever and muscle pains or feel generally unwell for one or two days after vaccination. These flu-like symptoms do not mean you have the flu. They are most likely to be your body's natural response to the vaccine.

IF YOU HAVE ANY QUESTIONS
